Credit Scheme		Evaluation Scheme
Lecture	Practical	Credit		Internal			Total
			Written	Practical	Tutorial	External	Total
	40 Hrs./Week	22	_	250	-	300	550

Course Description:

A project is an assignment that the student needs to complete at the end of semester IV to strengthen the understanding of fundamentals through effective application of the subjects learnt.

Course Outcomes:

Student will be able to

CO1: Create working project using tools and techniques learnt in the programme (Create)

Course Structure:

The project is an outcome of technical skills and domain knowledge acquired by the students during the program. Students demonstrate problem solving skills, analytical ability, logical thinking, communication skills and team work during the course of the project. The project can be implementation of a research work published in any reputed journal.

- The project may be done individually or in groups. However, if project is done in groups, each student must be given a responsibility for distinct modules.
- Selected project/module must have relevant scope as per the marks assigned and can be carried out in the Institute or outside with prior permission of the Institute.
- Internal guide should monitor and evaluate the progress of the project on individual basis through handwritten workbook maintained by students containing various project milestones with learnings and remarks from internal guide for concurrent evaluation.
- The Semester IV project should be having sufficient scope for 400 marks. The project work will carry 300 marks for internal assessment and 250 marks for external assessment.
- Students are expected to show working demo of the project during final evaluation in semester IV.
- 6. The project report should be prepared as per the University prescribed format with all the chapters mentioned in project guidelines. And it should be printed on back-to-back pages (one copy) which should be signed by the internal guide and the Director of the Institute. A client (colleges, Non IT organization, and IT organization) certificate should be attached to prove the authenticity of the project work done.
- 7. The project will be assessed internally as well as externally by the examiners appointed by the institutions and University.

Type of Projects

1. Application Development

The students are advised to choose a project that involves window-based development, web-based development, mobile-based development, projects based on machine learning. Analysis and interpretation of any company specific data is not permitted.

2. Embedded Systems / IoT

A project should be developed and implemented for application specific system after thorough investigation of the latest development in the field of electronics or communication to facilitate their efficient operation. The Real Time Operating System (RTOS) or open source platform can be used to develop embedded applications such as Robotics, Microcontroller / Microprocessor based projects etc. An IOT project can be used to design products for reliability and security using simple electronics concepts and integrating with a cloud platform to get the data real-time and make some operational analysis. It has to use efficient algorithms for strong authentication and security protocols and disable non-essential services.

Few examples of IoT applications Smart home, Health care applications, Smart waste management, Activity Tracker etc.

3. ETL Projects

Extract, transform, load (ETL) is the process of integrating the data from one or more sources. It is expected from the student that he should demonstrate the entire ETL process with reference to any domain like finance, banking, insurance, retail etc.

Data extraction consists of extracting the data from homogeneous or heterogeneous sources and transforming it into a proper format using data cleansing. The data can be finally loaded into a final target database such as operational data base, a data mart or data warehouse. This data can be further used for the purpose of querying and analyzing.

4. Research Projects

The research project will be able to demonstrate the skills of working scientifically, and through the project the students will able to understand how to do a literature review, and how to appraise the literature to address questions. To explore an area of interest (develop some expertise and a deeper understanding of a topic). Understand the tools to critically and thoughtfully appraise problems which are faced every day; to learn communicate scientific research in verbal presentations and written form. As an example, the students can identify any problem, by observation or through survey to understand the problem in depth and propose the solution by applying the research methodology.

4. Research Projects

Research projects especially are designed to gain knowledge about some specified area and the deliverable is that knowledge gained, usually encapsulated in some form of report.

Students are expected to contribute something new to academic or practical knowledge in their research area—something original that is more than the accepted knowledge.

Completing a Research Project as part of your coursework is an opportunity to:

- learn to read and interpret other people's research critically by doing your own. This gives you an insight into the effects of practical difficulties and theoretical debates on published research
- develop and apply the knowledge that you have learnt in 4 semesters of your curriculum.
- submit a paper for peer-reviewed publication. (If successful, this will give a boost to your c.v.) If you wish to enroll in a research degree such as PhD, a research project as part of your coursework will assist the committee evaluating your application in assessing whether you are ready to do independent research.

Research Index

1. Title page

2. Acknowledgements

You should acknowledge the assistance given to you by your supervisors, and any other person or organization that has helped you in the planning, conduct, analysis or reporting of your project.

Abstract

This is a synopsis of your study question, aims and objectives, background literature, methods, results, key conclusions and recommendations. This should be 250–300 words long and should be very clear and easy to follow.

4. Introduction

In this section of your report you introduce the subject, provide the background to the topic or problem, outline the study question (or problem or study hypothesis), and outline the aims and objectives of your study.

5. Literature review

This is a review of the literature on the topic or problem you are studying. It should include a review of any other studies or projects similar or relevant to yours, and perhaps a review of the literature on the method you have chosen if your project tests a new method of research or analysis.

6. Methods

This section includes the methodology of your research. It will cover such issues as: In case of Computer Management Research :

- Study design
- Study population, sampling frame and numbers, sampling method
- survey design
- survey or data collection instruments
- protocol for obtaining data
- ethical issues and how they are addressed
- information letters, consent forms
- data management and analysis methods
- statistical analysis and tests
- In case of Computer Science Research:
- Study design
- System Architecture
- Implementation
  - o Experimental Implementation
  - o Simulation
- Data management and analysis methods
- Analysis and testing

7. Results

In this section you present the results of your research. Tables, figures and graphs are an excellent means of presenting this sort of information. All tables, figures and graphs, should be numbered consecutively throughout the whole report, and labelled with a clear and concise descriptive title.

8. Discussion

In this section you interpret your results and discuss their implications, with reference to other published research. Any limitations in your research methodology should also be referred to here. Examiners expect you to acknowledge these limitations as an integral part of your evaluation of your project.

9. Conclusion

This section summarizes the key results and the conclusions that you can draw from these results. It also needs to reflect what your initial project aims and objectives were.

10. Recommendations

It is good research practice to make recommendations or to suggest directions for further research or actions as a result of your project findings.

11. References

This is a list of all the references and sources you used in your literature review, methodology and discussion. This includes books, journal articles, abstracts, conference and symposium papers, media articles, and any form of published literature or comment.

12. Appendices

This section may contain copies of any questionnaires if any or evaluation instruments used covering letters, participant information and ethics approvals, or additional explanations.

MCA Subject Distribution for Academic year 2021-22 (Semester I, III & V)

As per the UGC regulations wide circulation No. F3-1/2009 dt.30/06/2010, workload should not be less than 40 hours a week for 30 working weeks (180 teaching days) in an academic year, excluding admissions, examination, vacation & holidays.

Total teaching load for Assistant Professor should be 16 hours, for Associate Professor should be 14 hours and for Professor should be 14 hours per week.

A relaxation of two hours in the workload may, however, be given to Professors who are actively involved in extension activities and administration. A minimum of 6 hours per week may have to be allocated for UGC/AICTE research grants activities of a teacher.

Guideline for Project Viva

- Students are expected to undertake one mini project starting from first semester till third semester.
- The student may take up the mini project in first semester based on the courses learnt in that semester and for every next semester the mini project may be based on the courses learnt in the current semester along with all the subjects learnt in earlier semesters.
- 3. The student may take up the project individually or in group. However, if project is done in group, each student must be given a responsibility for distinct modules.
- 4. Selected project/module must have relevant scope as per the marks assigned and must be carried out in the Institute.
- Internal guide should monitor and evaluate the progress of the project on individual basis through handwritten workbook (Project Diary) maintained by students containing various project milestones with learnings and remarks from internal guide for concurrent evaluation.
- 6. The Project Synopsis should contain an Introduction to Project clearly stating the project scope in detail justifying enough scope for 125 marks. The project work will carry 75 marks for internal assessment and 50 marks for external assessment.
- 7. Students are expected to show working demo of the project during final evaluation.
- Students are expected to submit the soft copy of mini project report as a part of final submission.
- 9. The project will be assessed internally as well as externally by the examiners appointed by University. University may appoint Industry Experts as an external examiner.
- Students are expected to undertake one mini project starting from first semester till third semester.
- 11. The student may take up the mini project in first semester based on the courses learnt in that semester and for every next semester the mini project may be based on the courses learnt in the current semester along with all the subjects learnt in earlier semesters.
